Regardless of where you are in the writing process--whether you are still forming ideas in your head, organizing your thoughts on paper, or completing final edits--a well-timed tutoring session can help to achieve your academic goals. Appointment times are flexible, so please take advantage of the university's free tutoring service.

What You Should Know:

- meeting times are by appointment only; contact via email
- you will be requested to email your work to the tutor 24 hours before your set meeting time
- bring an updated hard copy of your work (even if a copy has already been emailed to the tutor)
- bring a copy of the assignment sheet and all related reading material, such as the course text and handouts
- bring Rules for Writers by Diana Hacker
- bring other relevant tools: pens, pencils, notepaper
- notify your tutor of cancelations via email as soon as possible
